Adrian Stuke Update

"Family and Friends.. Janie has asked me to post a message to let all know that the surgery for Adrian has been postponed again. They went to the hospital this morning for the surgery and the doctors have decided they want to do more testing for the memory part of the brain. They want to freeze the left lobe where tumor is and test the right side for memory... They could have went ahead with the surgery today but could have taken out his memory as well.. Hopefully they will get new testing scheduled soon . Please pass this on to others and please keep prayers going for them.... Although very disappointing that the surgery was once again postponed, we all want the best to come from the surgery..."
